Repositioning a prestigious Sydney address.

With sweeping views over the Royal Botanic Gardens and Sydney Opera House, the 151 Macquarie Street repositioning transforms this 1960s 12-storey tower into a contemporary icon within the Sydney CBD.

A rejuvenated facade increases openings on the North and Eastern aspects, providing tenants with enhanced natural light, increased views and connection to the historic surrounds.

The concept re-imagines the building's history with the podium reinstated to its original datum, and the existing structural 'c-shape' slab edge showcased subtly through a new continuous glazed curtain wall system.
