

Interwoven Tapestry

700 George Street blends heritage, Asian-inspired elements, local character and sustainable features, creating a cohesive architectural gesture that enriches Haymarket's urban landscape. The restored Kiss Building and elegant contemporary tower celebrate historical and cultural influences, establishing a vibrant precinct that reflects the rich tapestry of Chinatown's past and present.

Inside, the residential, hotel, and hospitality offerings flow seamlessly across interconnected spaces that offer varied, elevated experiences. The design weaves together living, staying, dining, and entertainment zones, providing a both a dynamic retreat and cultural hub that connects guests and residents with Haymarket's energetic, multicultural environment.

The building gestures to the prominent corner arrival and public domain, improving vistas and solar access to key heritage items. These moves are layered with expressive facade treatments that amplify the site's unique qualities, creating a vision distinct to its place.
